PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

Foundation Transition

Today we had our 2023 Foundation students visit our school again as part of their transition to Camp Hill. For some this will be their first time in our school, a very exciting and challenging time as they begin their journey with us.

Prep Buddies

This week our 2023 Grade 6 Foundation Buddies were identified after writing a letter of application outlining the qualities they believed they could bring to the role. Foundation Buddies play a very important part, in supporting the newest members of the school as they transition into regular school life. For the Grade 6 Buddies, their next task will be to write a letter to their Foundation Buddies, introducing themselves and welcoming them to the school. Letters will be posted to the Foundation students during the Christmas break.

WELLBEING MATTERS

SLEEP...

Sleep is important for children's growth, learning, mood and development. Getting enough sleep also strengthens your child's immune system and reduces the risk of infection and illness. Good sleep habits like relaxing bedtime routines can help children sleep. When your child sleeps well, your child will be more settled, happy and ready for school the next day. Good quality sleep helps your child concentrate, remember things, regulate their emotions and behave well. This all helps your child learn well.

Children aged 5-11 years need 9-11 hours sleep a night. Some children fall deeply asleep very quickly when they go to bed. Others sleep lightly, fidgeting and muttering, before getting into deep sleep. Puberty affects children's sleep. Often going to bed and waking up later, but they still need plenty of good-quality sleep.

How to help children sleep well

A good night's sleep is about getting to sleep, staying asleep and getting enough good-quality sleep. Here are some ideas that can help your child get the sleep they need.

- Bedtime routine

A bedtime routine is very important at any age, but especially for children. It helps your child wind down from the day and helps their brain and body connect that it is time for sleep.

For example, put on pyjamas, brush teeth, go to the toilet, quiet time in the bedroom with a book or quiet activity, say goodnight and lights out.

- Relaxing before bed

After a big day at school, your child might still be thinking about the day's events and worries. If your child's mind is still busy at bedtime, it can cause a restless night or bad dreams. You can help your child settle and relax for sleep by keeping activities quiet in the hour before bed. For example, you could play gentle music or read a story together; a bath or shower as part of your child's bedtime routine can also help with relaxation. Relaxing before bed also helps with better sleep for pre-teens and teenagers. Ideally, screen-time (TV, computers, ipads, PlayStations etc) will be limited for about 1-2 hours before lights out. If your child has had a busy day, or you they often can't settle well once lights are out, perhaps helping them to talk about or journal their thoughts/worries about the day may help settle their mind ready for sleep.

- Good sleep habits

Your child might sleep better at night if they keep regular sleep and wake times, even on the weekend; turn computers, tablets and TV off an hour before bedtime, have a quiet and dimly lit place to sleep, have their room and bed at the right temperature – not too hot or cold; get plenty of natural light during the day, especially in the morning, avoid caffeine in sports drinks and chocolate, especially in the late afternoon and evening.

LOTE

Prep

Students kept working on the Chinese reader 'Bluey's Family and Friends' in different speaking games. We were glad to see more and more confident students can finish their one to 100 challenge while counting along with a tutorial video.

Grade One and Two

Ms. Chen really had a headache, as there were so many confident groups who wanted to perform the 'Three Little Pigs' role play in front of the class and we only had 30 minutes for a lesson. Hopefully, we can finish some more quality recordings and share them with parents soon.

Grade Three and Four

Students finished a student voice survey about their interest and preference of learning Chinese, sharing information about how can help them engage more in learning Chinese. They did a great job in their online assessment of translation.

Grade Five and Six

Students kept working on their video project and learned how to record audio and video on PowerPoint slides and turn a PowerPoint document into a video. We were amazed and impressed by some student YouTuber's incredible Chinese language tutorial videos. Their work deserves a lot of 'Like' and 'Subscribe'.

Chinese Language Participation Week

All participants from Grade Three to Six got together making dumplings to celebrate their great work and achievement. They loved the food and the mix-age group celebration.
